Dear Collectors,

The spirit of celebration infuses this edition of the Bulletin. The issues showcase the diversity in the community we seek to reflect in new and meaningful ways through our issue programme.

We start with detailed coverage of Australia Post’s 2001 Australian Legends issue (released 25 January). Known and loved by Australians young and old, Slim Dusty has spent many years celebrating our unique way of life in his songs.

Our first March issue celebrates the opening of the new National Museum of Australia. The days when museums were sombre, imposing buildings are long gone, as the new Museum of Victoria and now the national museum demonstrate. The location of the national museum, on the shores of Lake Burley Griffin, combines with spectacular architecture to create an object of interest, education and wonder.

Music is synonymous with celebration, and Rock Australia, also in March, celebrates iconic Australian music. The issue follows numerous requests to continue our popular issue, Australian Rock ‘n’ Roll (June 1998). This time we feature songs by artists ranging from John Farnham to Silverchair. If you haven’t heard of some of these songs/artists, don’t worry; neither had I until we started researching this issue.

These songs/artists speak to many younger people about their experience of Australia. They will welcome this celebration of popular culture—and a significant Australian industry—on their country’s stamps.

In April we celebrate the 75th birthday of the Queen of Australia, Her Majesty, Queen Elizabeth II. We mark this milestone with a special sheetlet of ten stamps that features a decorative selvedge.

Our Colour My Day issue could just as easily have been called Celebration! Colour My Day includes stamps for both domestic and international use. Initially released with title tabs, these stamps will also be available for personalisation later in the year.

In May we celebrate the centenary of the opening of Federal Parliament. To emphasise the importance of the event, we have issued two miniature sheets, one for each of the stamps.

Until next time,

David Maiden, Manager, Philatelic Group
Slim and his family toured outback and regional Australia in days when roads were often bad and communications difficult. Indeed he still tours. It is this dedication to country music fans that has made him such a popular and respected figure.

Slim received an MBE, and in 1998 was awarded an AO in for his services to country music and the entertainment industry.

In 1992 he helped form the Country Music Association of Australia to promote the songs of the bush and remained chairman of the Association until just recently.

In 1998 Slim was named one of 100 National Living Treasures by the National Trust of Australia. In 1999 he was named Father of the Year and Senior Australian of the Year.

His selection to sing ‘Waltzing Matilda’ at the close of the Sydney 2000 Olympic Games highlights his status in Australian popular culture.

Today Slim’s career has spanned six decades during which he has dominated country music in Australia and won countless music industry awards.

To really understand his unprecedented level of popularity, consider this: Slim Dusty is Australia’s best-selling domestic artist. He has won more gold and platinum record awards than any other Australian performer.

Design
“Slim’s life story is simply extraordinary; to make real music that touches people for nigh on five decades is a breath-taking and remarkable achievement. In partnership with wife Joy, the benchmark has been set by a career where creativity and endurance have been coupled with a deep affection for the land and its people.”

-Peter Garrett, Midnight Oil

Slim Dusty, the kid from Nulla Nulla Creek

In this book Peter Bowers gives us a glimpse of the life—both private and public—of the kid from Nulla Nulla Creek.

Using a mix of narrative, quotes from the man himself, and testimonials from fans, Bowers opens the sacred store of memories that shapes Slim Dusty’s life and music; from the dreamy kid who at 11 years of age created ‘Slim Dusty’, to the hard years on the road; from facing nightmare of losing his voice, to singing ‘Waltzing Matilda’ to an audience of nearly 4 billion, during the Sydney 2000 Olympic Games’ closing ceremony.

The book features candid photos from years past and present, cover art from his Album of the Year award winning albums and a chronology of highlights in the life of this (self-described) ordinary Australian whose extraordinary music touches everyone who hears it.

Associated products

The issue includes a sheetlet (10 x 45c), a booklet of ten x 45c self-adhesive stamps, a set of two maximum cards, a sheetlet pack, the book Slim Dusty, the kid from Nulla Nulla Creek, and the Slim Dusty CD, A piece of Australia.
About the Australian Legends series

As part of its support for Australia Day, Australia Post established the Australian Legends Award. The award honours a prominent Australian (or Australians) who, over a lifetime of achievement in his or her particular field of endeavour, has made an outstanding contribution to the Australian identity and heritage.

Stamps featuring the Australian Legend(s) are released to coincide with the presentation of the award each Australia Day.

The first in the series (1997) paid tribute to Sir Donald Bradman, considered the greatest cricketer ever to play the game. The 1998 award honoured six Australian Olympic Legends: Betty Cuthbert, Herb Elliott, Dawn Fraser, Marjorie Jackson, Murray Rose and Shirley Strickland.

The late artist, Arthur Boyd, received the award in 1999, and in 2000 the award went to the three remaining living Gallipoli veterans, Roy Longmore, Walter Parker and Alec Campbell. (Walter Parker has since died).

The opening of the National Museum of Australia is part of the celebrations marking the centenary of federation. The museum was developed as a forum—a place for sharing stories and exchanging information about different cultures, as well as displaying rare and unique objects. The museum employs a fresh and exciting approach to Australian history, culture and the environment. It presents its varied subject matter through the blending of exhibits, technology, media, live performances and hands-on activities.

Three main themes form the museum’s intellectual framework: Australian society and its history since 1788; the interaction of people with the environment; Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander cultures and histories.

The stamps

The designer has combined details of the museum’s architectural features: the entry canopy, skylights, and an architectural site plan, with the wallaby sculpture: Pangk (1962, George, MacNaught and Joe Ngallametta, Wik people of Western Cape York Peninsula, wood, ochre, nails, and resin, 68 x 11 cm). The stamps interweave these design elements evoking the same organic, narrative experience and anti-monumental feel envisaged for the museum itself.

In 1998 Australia Post issued Australian Rock ‘n’ Roll, a set of twelve stamps featuring Australian hit songs of the late 50s, the 60s and the early 70s. Rock Australia takes us from the pub rock era of the late 70s to the dance and studio music of the 1990s.

From hard rock to pure pop, the ten hit songs featured on the stamps highlight the diversity of the Australian contemporary music scene. All were great hits that found their way into the hearts of the music-loving public. Each of them said something about us, and told the rest of the world this is what popular culture sounds like, and it has an Australian accent.

‘Khe Sanh’ (1978) Cold Chisel
One of the best hard rock bands in the country, Cold Chisel built their success from live performances in the heyday of pub rock. ‘Khe Sanh’, their first hit from their first album became their signature song.

‘Down under’ (1981) Men at Work
Men at Work achieved extraordinary international success with a flippant pop style. ‘Down under’ was in the charts (for 18 weeks) in 1981-82, recharted in 1983 and 1987.

‘Power and the passion’ (1983) Midnight Oil
A combination of outspoken politics and hard-driving rock’n’roll won ‘The Oils’ international success and a special place in Australian rock history. ‘Power and the passion’, was just one of many hits from their fourth album 10,9,8,7,6,5,4,3,2,1, which stayed in the charts for more than three and a half years.

‘Original sin’ (1984) INXS
The band’s melding of rock, funk and modern dance rhythms in ‘Original sin’ resulted in their first (of many) Australian and international hits

‘You’re the voice’ (1986) John Farnham
John Farnham’s career started in the 60s and continues strong today. ‘You’re the voice’, from Whispering Jack (October 1986) was enormously successful.

‘Don’t dream it’s over’ (1986) Crowded House
The first album by Crowded House sold more than one million copies in America alone. ‘Don’t dream it’s over’, released as the single, won Best Australian Song at the 1986 Australian Record Industry Association awards, the first of many such accolades for the group.
‘Treaty’ (1991) Yothu Yindi
The band members hail from the north-eastern Arnhem Land community of Yirrkala. Their music combines rock’n’roll music with ancient song cycles and traditional dance performances. Yothu Yindi became the first Aboriginal band to achieve a Top 40 hit in Australia with their single ‘Treaty’ from the album of the same name.

‘Tomorrow’ (1994) silverchair
The three school mates that formed silverchair were just fifteen when their debut album, Frogstomp, and its hit single, ‘Tomorrow’, became instant international hits.

‘Confide in me’ (1994) Kylie Minogue
Kylie Minogue – one of Australia’s most successful pop exports – marked her arrival as the dance diva with the dance anthem ‘Confide in me’.

‘Truly, madly, deeply’ (1997) Savage Garden
Savage Garden spent almost a year in a home studio writing and recording. They sent more than 150 unsolicited demonstration tapes to record companies and publishers before their diligence was rewarded. Their first album entered the charts at no.1 and stayed there for nineteen weeks! ‘Truly, madly, deeply’ topped the charts in the USA as well as Australia and was certified as the most played song on American radio for 1998.
This compact disc celebrates the fantastic and richly diverse Australian writing and musical talents with everything from pub rock to international pop music.

The 80s and 90s brought us music that was exciting and energetic, with a healthy dose of introspection. It was music that recognised our identity and nurtured an emerging cultural pride. Using the musical entities behind the ten iconic songs featured in the stamp issue, this book celebrates the songs that spoke to us, and for us at home and around the world. As the author, Glen A. Baker—himself a legend in the Australian music industry—writes in the introduction: “Within these pages are ten of our most impressive musical entities from vital, pivotal years...”

This year our annual Queen’s Birthday issue features a contemporary photograph of the Queen taken in Glasgow, Scotland in 1999. The background texture is a script ‘ERII’ motif, which is also used in the centre of the FDI postmarker.

The silk background used in the pack, sheetlet and maximum cards emphasises the Queen’s grace and femininity.

The issue includes a special commemorative sheetlet with a decorative selvedge marking the occasion of the Queen’s 75th birthday (shown above). A stamp pack, first day cover and maximum card complete the issue.
The five colourful, highly versatile designs of Colour My Day are available with title tabs (as shown), through normal channels; Australia Post outlets and mail order from the Australian Philatelic Bureau. The issue includes different designs for domestic (three x 45c) and international (one each $1.00 and $1.50) use. The designs take into account different style preferences in the domestic and international markets.

The issue is made up of individual sheets (no decorative selvedge) for each design, a first day cover, a stamp pack, postcards, a set of maximum cards and a pack of five sheets (one sheetlet of each design) with title tabs and decorative selvedge. Three postcards (featuring the designs for the Bayulu Banner, Let’s Party, and Smile) will also be produced.

Later in the year the stamps will join the range of P Stamps already on sale (details in Bulletin 260, June-July 2001). At that point the tabs can be personalised with an image of someone or something dear to you, such as your child, a beloved pet, your home, boat, even a company logo.

The stamps

2001 (45c) celebrates the ‘real’ millennium with some reference to celebrating nationhood on the centenary of federation. The design is colourful featuring abstract streamers and foil.

Let’s Party (45c) takes an illustrative approach to the theme with balloons and streamers in bright colours.

Leaps and Bounds ($1.00) sports a red kangaroo and her joey against their grasslands habitat.

Bayulu Banner ($1.50) uses a reproduction of a detail from a colourful banner in synthetic polymer paint on canvas by the Aboriginal Bayulu community of Fitzroy Crossing. The banner is in the collection of the National Gallery of Victoria.

Setting the scene
Following the federation of the Australian colonies on 1 January 1901, elections were held on 29 and 30 March.

The opening of the first Federal Parliament on 9 May 1901 was spectacular. The vast spaces of Melbourne’s Royal Exhibition Building, where the ceremony was held, were hung with garlands and festooned with flags. Melbourne’s Royal Exhibition Building was the only building large enough to hold the guests (variously estimated at between 12,000 and 15,000). Along with parliamentarians, guests included vice-regal representatives, professors, heads of consulates, mayors, military and naval officers, bishops and the leading figures of commerce and industry. The Duke and Duchess of Cornwall and York (later King George V and Queen Mary) were the official guests.

Music followed the formal opening. As the Duke was the grandson of Queen Victoria who had died only three months previously, he and many of the guests were dressed mourning. Despite this, Melbourne celebrated the historic event in grand style. The streets of the city were heavily decorated with flags and bunting.

Elaborate arches were constructed at major intersections. Melbourne then celebrated with a week of festivities including sporting events, fireworks and processions.

Design
In contrast to the first two issues in the series, which took a historical, narrative approach the third (by Sadgrove Design Partners, Melbourne) combines narrative and symbolic elements.

The two best known pictorial records of the occasion are Charles Nuttall’s painting, The opening of the first Federal Parliament, 9 May 1901, and Tom Roberts’ painting, Opening of the First Parliament of the Commonwealth of Australia by HRH The Duke of Cornwall and York (Later King George V), May 9, 1901.

The design juxtaposes past and present, emphasising the continuity of the parliamentary tradition. The combined images remind us that our modern parliamentary democracy is built upon the foundation of federation.

45c stamp

$2.45 stamp
The top half of this stamp reproduces Tom Roberts’ official pictorial record of the occasion.
Roberts depicts the event as it would have been observed from an imaginary vantage point in the Exhibition Building’s eastern transept.

A graphic representation of Parliament House’s flagpole appears on the stamps and associated products. This design element (silver metallic ink on the 45c stamp, gold on the $2.45 stamp) links historic and modern Australia.

Miniature sheets

In recognition of the importance of this event Australia Post has produced two miniature sheets, one for each of the two stamps.

The stamps are set in a wide silver or gold border (45c and $2.45 respectively) printed in metallic ink along the right and bottom sides of the miniature sheets.

Associated products

As well as the two miniature sheets the issue includes two first day covers, a set of two maximum cards and a stamp pack.

Stamping the Nation: Australia Since Federation: Australia Post invites you to reflect on Australia's experience of the 20th century through this book, which uses Australian stamps as illustrative material and as objects of history themselves.

It is a lively and interesting read that captures the spirit of the century, a wonderful souvenir of Australia's history since federation.

The book is organised by decade. Each decade is outlined, then takes a detailed look at two significant events during that decade.

It reveals some extraordinary Australians and the events they have lived through; such as the terrifying influenza pandemic of 1919 and the first ever visit by a reigning monarch.

Finally each chapter includes a stamp story that reveals some fascinating aspects of Australia's postal and philatelic history. For example, did you know that there was no Australian stamp until 1913 or that there was a post office established under one of the pylons when Sydney Harbour Bridge opened?

Stamping the Nation: Australia since Federation is illustrated from one of Australia's great artistic and design archives. It will appeal to anyone who wants an overview of this defining century in Australia's history.

The three issues in Australia Post's Federation series are:
- Towards Federation (May 2000)
- Centenary of Federation (January 2001)

As part of the Centenary of Federation celebrations, Federal Parliament will sit in the Royal Exhibition Building on 9 May 2001.

Federation Frontline: A people’s history of World War II in the Northern Territory

The story of the Territory as frontline battlefield, has waited almost 60 years to be told.

Using the Bombing of Darwin as their focal point, Peter and Sheila Forrest use words and pictures to tell the moving story of war time in the NT. The resulting book, Federation Frontline: A people’s history of World War II in the Northern Territory, shows us not only what happened, but how the experience changed the people, the Territory and the Australian nation.

The authors, well known and widely published historians have crafted a provocative and perceptive book that captures the drama, tragedy and the human experience of the Territory during the war.

Federation Frontline is written about the people of the Northern Territory, for all Australians.

Federation Frontline will be sold in Post retail outlets in South Australia and the Northern Territory, and by mail order from the Australian Philatelic Bureau: Freecall 1 800 331 749

An Post (the Irish Post Office) issues stamps which commemorate international events that have a connection with Ireland. These stamps will be released to coincide with Australia Post’s Federal Parliament 1901-2001 issue. The stamp designs commemorate federation and the Irish contribution to the development of the Australian character. Because of the issue’s association with federation Australia Post has agreed to sell selected products from this issue on behalf of An Post.

The set of sheetlets comprises The Land of Promise and Rebel Spirit each of which features two of the four stamps in the issue. The Land of Promise sheetlet captures the emotions of emigration, Rebel Spirit captures the emergence of the Australian identity with images of Peter Lalor and Ned Kelly.

The presentation pack features the miniature sheet (illustrated top right). The miniature sheet features the IR £1 Ned Kelly stamp.

These products will be available from Collector’s Corner outlets and by mail order from the Australian Philatelic Bureau. They will also be available from Max Stern and Co, 234 Flinders Street, Port Phillip Arcade, Melbourne, Phone (03) 9654 6751 or Fax (03) 9650 7192.
Centenary of Federation-Coin Collection

When complete, this collector’s keepsake of Australia’s States & Territories coins will be a wonderful memento of a landmark year for Australia. The 20 coins in the collection will be released in stages and will be available as either Uncirculated or Proof.

Starter sets (Proof and Uncirculated) will be released first. Proof sets are produced in limited numbers and feature coloured Centenary of Federation logo and Commonwealth Coat of Arms coins. Along with these commonwealth designs each set will, when complete, include nine 50c State Coat of Arms coins (one each NSW, ACT, QLD, VIC, NT, WA, SA, TAS, and Norfolk Island [NI]) and nine 20c Student Design coins (one each NSW, ACT, QLD, VIC, NT, WA, SA, TAS, and NI).

After the starter set is released, the coins for other states and self-governing territories will be released according to the mint’s schedule outlined on the following page.

Completing your set of Federation coins

We are offering these RAM coin sets on behalf of the Royal Australian Mint, which is releasing the coins sequentially. First the starter sets with presentation case or album as described above. Updates will be released in two (50c & 20c) coin sets to complete the twenty coin collection.

Presentation cases and albums for these sets are only available as part of the starter sets and will not be available separately.

Updates

The series will be updated with two coin sets (one each 50c State Coat of Arms, 20c Student Design) which will be priced at $6.55 or $22.00 (uncirculated or proof respectively).

When completed the total cost for the uncirculated collection (twenty coins plus album) is $92.15, $250.00 for the proof collection (twenty coins plus case).

Three Coin Sets
For those who wish to collect coins from an individual state or territory, the mint will release three coin sets for each state and self-governing territory. A three coin set makes a perfect memento or gift.

These sets are presented in packs, perfect for display on a shelf or desk. Three coin proof sets include a coloured Centenary of Federation coin plus the State Coat of Arms (50c) and Student design (20c) coins.

Three coin sets will be priced at $16.50 or $44.00 (uncirculated/proof respectively). The remaining sets will be released at the same time updates to the twenty coin sets are released.

Future releases
Australia Post is selling these Federation Coin sets on behalf of the Royal Australian Mint. They advise us that they will release the coins according to the following schedule.

- Starter set (includes Federal and NSW coins) February 2001
- ACT & QLD Two coin and Three coin sets March 2001
- VIC Two and Three coin sets May 2001
- NI Two and Three coin sets June
- NT Two and Three coin sets July
- WA, SA & TAS Two and Three coin sets second half of 2001

1113314 80th year of the RAAF .......................$2.15
2001 will mark 100 years since the first Australian wintered in the Antarctic and the 50th anniversary of the ANARE Club. This issue commemorates Australia’s history in the Antarctic over the last century.

In a first for Australian stamps, the sheet of twenty stamps will be printed with descriptive text on the back of each stamp. The design flows into the selvedge. The time periods and themes for the stamps in each row are printed in the selvedge along the left edge of the sheet. The title of the issue and the subject of the stamp is printed on each stamp.

The stamps illustrate the history of Australia’s experience in the Antarctic over the last century. The Australian experience in the Antarctic is represented across four main time frames and themes.

Additional Information

ANARE Club

2001 is also the 50th anniversary of the ANARE Club which was established in 1951 to provide a forum and network for all the expeditioners who have been a part of the Australian National Antarctic Research Expeditions (ANARE) experience. The ANARE Club has over one thousand members who have been an integral part of Australia’s scientific and environmental endeavours in the Antarctic over the last fifty years.

In 2000, Australia Post in conjunction with the Australian Football League (AFL) launched ‘Footy Stamps’, which were sheets of 20 personalised stamps featuring images of the club’s AFL footballers on the tabs. The borders of the sheets were printed with a team themed design. The stamps were available through the 16 AFL clubs and proved very popular with AFL fans.

In 2001 fans of both the AFL and the National Rugby League (NRL) will be able to purchase sheets of stamps featuring the players selected by this season’s teams.

NRL
Details of the NRL’s stamps are not available at the time of printing and will be in the next issue of the Bulletin.

AFL
Team sheets will be available again in 2001, featuring the players selected for this season’s teams.

By special arrangement with the AFL these stamps will be available in the usual configurations from any Post outlet. If your local shop does not stock the sheets, they can order them for you. Sheets will also be available by mail order from the Australian Philatelic Bureau and through individual clubs.

Sheets of 20 x 45c Australia and Globe stamps (Nature & Nation, May 2000) will be personalised for each of the 16 AFL clubs. The border will be decorated with club colours and the AFL and team logos. Each tab will have an image of one of 20 players*. Sheets will be priced at $26.00 per sheet and will be available progressively from 19 April.

*Clubs will select the 20 players to feature on their sheets.

In 1999 US mint undertook to release 50 (one per US state) new circulating quarters (US 25c). Five new quarters will be released each year over a ten year period. The issue schedule is in statehood order, starting with Delaware and finishing with Hawaii (in 2008). Each quarter will depict a scene from the relevant state.

In a continuity programme with an international theme, the Perth Mint has undertaken to create a privy mark on its 1 oz silver Kookaburra $1.00 coin for each of the quarters in the 50 State Quarter™ program.

The first coin in this series, with a privy mark for the US state of Delaware, is now available. Each coin issued in the series will be housed in a printed, serial numbered folder.

POSTAGE AND HANDLING CHARGES

A postage and handling charge of $3.00 applies to products in the Australian Stamp Catalogue and coin ranges. This charge applies only once for each category. Therefore, if you purchase an item from each category, you pay $6.00 for postage and handling. Whether you order one or several items from a category, you only pay the $3.00 postage and handling charge once. When you order items which are from two categories, then you pay $6.00 postage and handling.
